UNIFORM CRIME REPORT UNIT
DEPARTMENT OF SAFETY
DIVISION OF STATE POLICE
CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE 03301

— FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE —

FORWARD

This Annual Uniform Crime Report portrays the nature, volume, and extent of crime in the State of New Hampshire during 1979. All statistics presented in this publication have been accumulated through direct report submission by each law enforcement agency participating in the New Hampshire Uniform Crime Reporting Program. The data, in turn, is submitted to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for inclusion in their annual publication entitled "Crime in the United States".

This report has been prepared to provide reliable and comprehensive data to the criminal justice community. While the various crime factors should prove to be of assistance to law enforcement personnel in planning programs to combat criminal activity throughout New Hampshire, they should not be used to judge the performance of any agency. It is not the purpose of the UCR program to measure individual department effectiveness, but rather to trace and reveal total criminal activity in the state.

Appreciation and gratitude are extended to all members of the law enforcement community. Without their enthusiastic cooperation, this report would not be possible.

OVERVIEW OF UCR

The Uniform Crime Reporting program began in the 1930's by the International Association of Chiefs of Police. At that time, there was perceived a need to collect information on crimes and criminals in a uniform manner across the country. It was felt that until the nature and extent of crime was defined, no definitive action could be taken against it. The wheels of the program were set in motion with the definition of seven "index crimes." These crimes were chosen because of their seriousness and frequency of occurance and are: homicide, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, and auto theft. In order to measure crime, it was decided to collect data on these crimes and criminal offenders that became known to the police. These index crimes are as valid a measure today as they were 50 years ago.

The national UCR program has been subject to much criticism in that it is not truly representative of the total amount of crime that occurs. This is a valid point. Many crimes go unreported. However, there is no valid method yet devised to measure unreported crimes. Of all the members of the criminal justice community, the police are closest to crime. Therefore, it makes more sense to collect data on offenses known to the police than offenses known to courts or corrections in order to measure crime. The further one gets from the source, the less reliable the data becomes. The objective of the New Hampshire UCR program is twofold: to inform the public on the nature of the crime problem in our state; and, to provide law enforcement administrators with criminal statistics for administrative and operational purposes.

The format of this particular report has changed over those of previous years. The intent is to display data that has been collected and give the reader sufficient information upon which to draw his own conclusions.

In reading this report, there are several items to keep in mind:

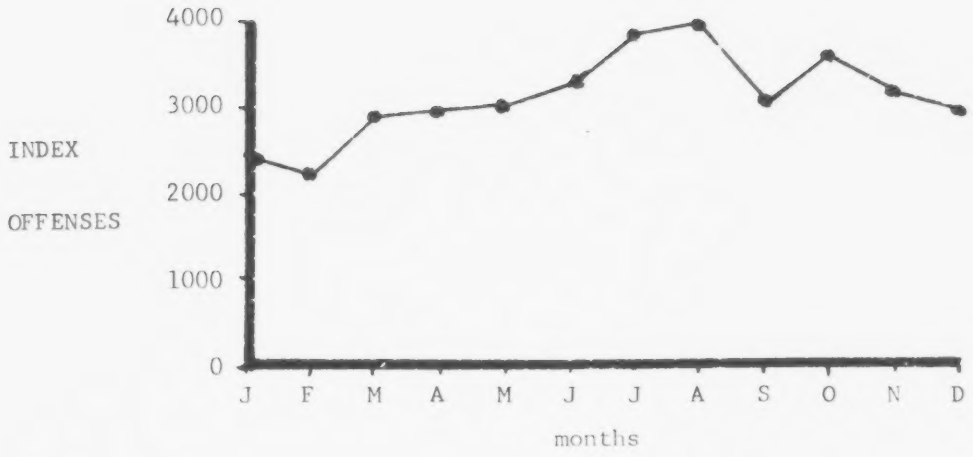
o The index offenses are the same as previous years. The crime of Arson was added as a Part I offense, but cannot be used as an index offense for several years due to a lack of concrete data upon which to compare. For a complete breakdown of Part I and Part II offenses, consult previous years state or federal reports.

o Crimes are cleared with the arrest or exceptional arrest of one or more individuals responsible for the crime. They are not cleared with the recovery of stolen property. A person arrested one time for multiple crimes is counted only once. The age of offender is taken from arrest reports.

o A base population of 885,000 was used to compute the crime rate.

o The subcategories within an index crime may not equal the total amount of that reported offense due to incomplete reports from some agencies.

INDEX CRIMES



The "Index Crimes" in New Hampshire increased from 34,649 in 1978 to 40,091 reported index crimes in 1979. These figures are based upon reports from essentially the same jurisdictions and do not, therefore, reflect an increase in the number of contributors. The majority of the increase can be attributed to over 4000 additional reported larcenies. Each index crime did, however, increase. Taken together these increases account for the 15.7% growth of crime in the state.

HOMICIDE

Homicide is defined as the willful (nonnegligent) killing of a human being. Any deaths due to a fight, argument, quarrel, assault, or commission of a crime is included. This index offense is scored by law enforcement officials on the basis of their investigation without regard to findings of a court or jury or the decision of a prosecutor. Attempts to kill are scored as assaults and not as murder. Suicides, accidental deaths, and justifiable or excusable homicides are also excluded.

In 1979, there were 20 homicides reported in New Hampshire. This represents a 55% increase from last years 11 reported offenses. However, the average number of homicides for the last three years in 19.3 (27 in 1977, 11 in 1978, 20 in 1979).

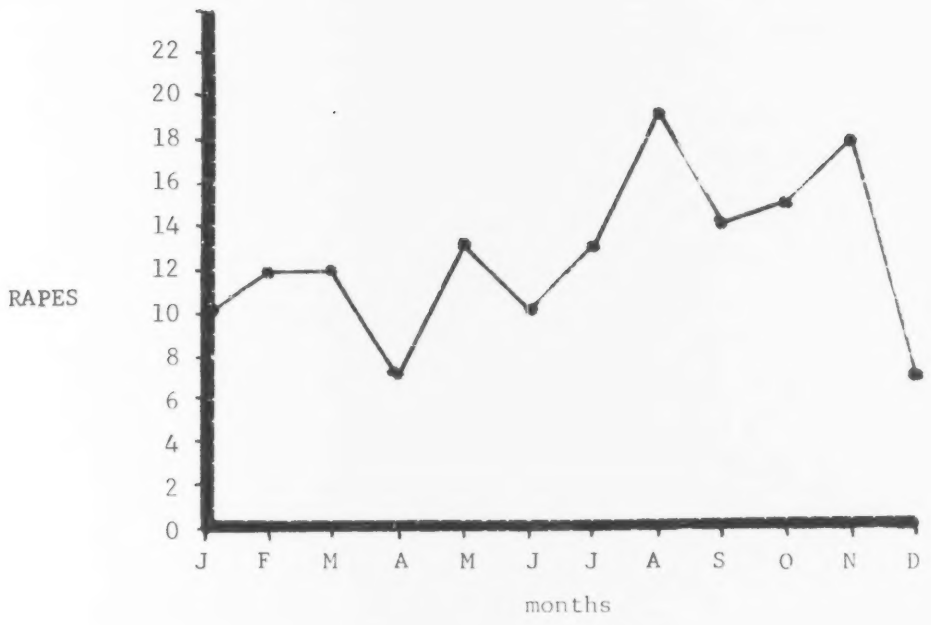
RAPE



Forcible rape is the carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will. For the purpose of Uniform Crime Reporting, rape is divided into two categories; rape by force and attempted rape. Carnal abuses without force, statutory rape, and other sex offenses are not counted. In 1979 there were 150 reported rapes in the state. This figure represents a 90% increase over the 79 reported rapes in 1978. The average number of rapes over the last three years is 109.

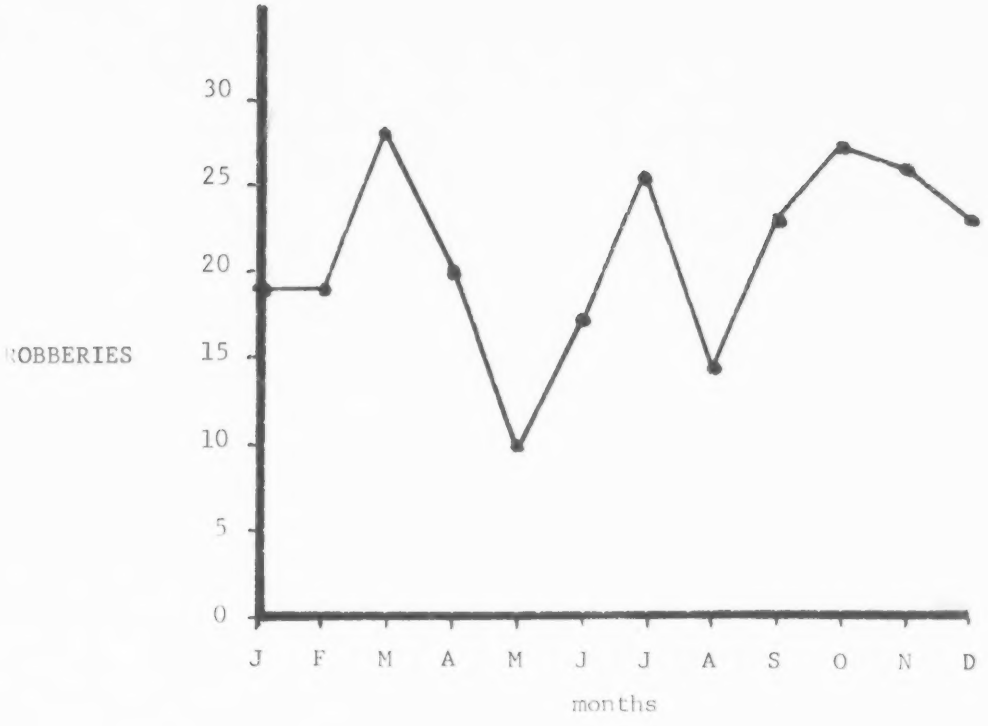
ROBBERY



Robbery is the felonious and forcible taking of the property of another, against his will, and by ciolence or putting the person in fear. For a crime of robbery to take place, the victim must be present. Robbery is further separated into two categories: Armed Robbery with any weapon in which an object is so employed as to constitute force or threat of force; and, strong-arm robbery in which no weapon is used. Muggings and similar offenses fall into this category. During 1979, there were 252 offenses of robbery in the states; an increase of 11% over the 1978 totals.
